Area Overview

While Mobile, Alabama is an exceptional place to vacation, visitors should be warned: at all costs, avoid traveling to the portal city via submarine. In 1863, the Mobile-built submarine, the H.L. Hunley, was the first sub in history to successfully sink an enemy ship. Unfortunately, the Hunley went down with it. But aside from its rich history of nautical warfare, Mobile—which is only a short drive away from the ocean—is a perfect substitute to the tourist-saturated beach towns of the Florida coast.

A vacation to Mobile provides the perfect balance between city culture and natural relaxation—and a Drury hotel is a great place to enjoy this equilibrium. The Drury Inn Mobile is only 30 miles from Dauphin Island and only a bit further from the gulf coast beaches.
