Area Overview

Without Bowling Green, there'd be no mid-life crises, no popular high school athletes and no young businessmen going into debt for the sake of status. Why, you ask? Because there'd be no Chevrolet Corvettes. Bowling Green's GM plant is the sole manufacturer of the #1 mid-life crises automobile, and an unsung local business hero for that fact alone. But we all know that any town, even one that manufactures Corvettes, needs more than one hero. And that's where Drury comes in.

Aside from Corvettes and free eggs, Bowling Green has plenty to offer. The nearby Lost River Cave offers underground boat tours. Beech Bend auto raceway showcases some fast cars. And a campus tour of Western Kentucky University is only a short drive away. For some Kentucky fun, look no further than the Drury Inn Bowling Green.
